But as a matter of historical fact, We are in possession of statements of the foreigners in China long before the Treaty of 1842 did enjoy a large self-government and immunity from interference on the part of the Chinese Authorities. As long as they stopped ON NEW YORK .short of manslanghter, the foreigners in the factories of Canton or on board the shipping at Whampon were allowed to treat one another as badly as they pleased, and it would never have occurred to any Vicercy of the Two Kwang to question the right of the Chief Supercargo of the East India Company to deal as he wished with any recalcitrant Englishman, whother his own subordinate or a licensed country merchant. The only instance in which the Cantonese Authorities, as far as we can recollect at the moment, took upon themselves to inflict punishment on an Englishmen for any other offence than manelaughter; was the imprisonment of Mr. Flint towards the middle of last century, and that, be it observed, was for disobedience to them. But

Mr. Tarring is not only under a wrong impression as to the condition of foreigners in China previous to the Treaty of Nanking, he is mistaken in assuming that British Consuls were first introduced into China under that Instrument. What he says of the history of the introduction of Consuls into Turkey had a ourious parallel out here. Letters Patent of Charles II. in 1662, quotes. "furtherrights and privileges were grant. ed to the Levent Company, including a power to appoint Consuls and Vice-Consuls in all the places in the dominion of the Grand Seignior and other places in the Levant Seas." forty years later a very similar privilege was granted by William III. to the English East

India Company, which was started about 1698, to oppose the old London Company in the Far East. The Presidents of the new Company of triped, as Sir J. Davis, points out, commissions as Consuls, and in 1699 Mr. Catchpole, whose esttlement in Chusan was described in the Asiatic Quarterly Review last year, came-out-to-China as the first British Consul. Although it does not appear that he had a commissioned successor, yet his Consular powers were continuously exercised by the various heads of Factories who, whether under the title of President or of Chief

Supercargo, succeeded him at Chusan, Amoy,

> THE ENGLISH MAILS FROM SHANG HAI FOR EUROPE.

The following letter has been sent to Shanghai papers from the Chamber of Commerce, for, oublication :-

General Post Office, London. GENTLEMEN,-The Postmaster General has had under consideration the letter dated Fobruary, 1888," signed by you and many other members of the mercantile community or Shanghai, pointing out that the departure of the British packet from Shanghui during the South West Monsoon on Tuesdays, instead of on Saturdays—the date fixed during the remainder of the year,—will interfere with the regularity of the intervals between the mails, insermed as the French packets alternating with the Peninsular and Uriental Packets will adhere to the Saturday departure all the year round. It is quite true that arrangements have been made for the French steamers to leave Shanghai, a whole week earlier and not on a different day of the week during the South West Monsoon but the Postmuster General is satisfied that the same plan could not be adopted by the British Dine without disorganising the whole of the Hustern Mail Service; for the transit of the mails would be retarded, the interests of various places between Shanghai and this country would be sacrificed, and great inconvenience would be created as regards the day of arrival of the mail in London.

In these circumstances Mr. Raikes desires H. BUXTON FORMAN. For the Secretary

THE YELLOW RIVER.

The prospect of closing the gap in the Yellow River is worse. The last memorial to the Throne s stated to be in a housless tone of despondency. No wonder, if this great river is beyond the power of Chinese engineering to control. What Lihung-tsan himself says, as printed in the Gasette the Fire Brigade. of the 19th May, is that during the preceding half month, the amount of the gap filled up was 100 feet short of what it ought to have been and that the cause was in the increasing, depth of the stream and the strength of the current. He On the proposal of the Chaleman, seconded is in great fear, on account of the approach of the summer rise in the river, which is what is called the "dog days' freshet" (that is, the 18th July), but at the wheat harvest term (June 5th) there is also an annual freshet in the river in Shantung, and this wast be earlier in Honan. > JAPAN. NAGASAKI.

According to the Rising Sun, gold in coustderable quantity is said to have been discovered among the hills near Yagami, some two or three ri from Nagasaki. The story of the discovery is told as follows :- Some twenty years ago an estrologer of the town declared that from certain observations of the heavens he had made he was assured that gold existed at some point close o, if not actually in Nagasaki, and his carnestness so prevailed upon a certain Mr. Yoshimura Asaki and some others that they have ever since been searching for the favoured spot. At last, we believe, their faith has been rewarded by a find of the precious metal near Yagami, as above pure gold extracted from it, are about to he despatched to Tokyo, with an application for Go-

INGLISH AND CHINESE DICTIONARY. WITH THE PUNTI AND MANDARIN PRONUNCIATION.

Dally Press Office, Hongkong. For comprehensiveness and practical service this Work stands unrivalled. All the now words which the Chinese have of late years been compelled to coin to express the numerous objects in machinery, photography, telegraphy, and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are here given in extenso. Each and every word is fully illustrated and explained, forming exercises for students of a most instructive nature. Both the Court and Punti pronunciations are given the accents being carefully marked on the best principle hitherto attained. The typography Chinese and English type correspond in the size Coin, or Jewellery, and, where Registration has of body, thereby effecting a vast sconomy of space, achieving a clearness not previously. attained, and dispensing with those vast margins and vacant spaces which have heretofore characterized Chinese publications.

To illustrate the vast scope of the work the pla following facts are submitted for consideration :-Chalmers' Vocabulary contains about 16.000 Chinese characters, and Medhurst's English and Chinese Dictionary about 100,000, whilst this work contains more than 50,000 English words, and upwards of 600,000 Chinese characters. Again, despite all the grammars and other elementary works as yet published, the student of this difficult language absolutely requires examples to display the various apply of the United States, via Overland Railways, to cations and equivalents of different words which this work contains more than five times as many as any other Dictionary hitheric pub-

> For practical purposes the arrangement of the work is so complete, that a reference to its pages enables a person who understands English to communicate effectively with natives who understand nothing but Chinese. In this respect the work will be found indispensable to all Europeans residing in China, and to the natives themselves it explains subjects fully with which very few indeed of them are perfectly acquainted. To parties resident in England and interested China it cannot but be invaluable occasion-

HONGKONG, SATURDAY, JUNE 16th, 1888.

(11th June.) The election of two members to represent the ratepayers on the Sanitary Board takes place this afternoon. Three excellent candidates have at the dast moment come forward, Mr. J. J. Francis, Q.C., Mr. R K. LEIGH, and Mr. J. D. HUMPHREYS, Mr. Francis's legal knowledge, his skill in debate. his long and intimate acquaintance with the colony, his knowledge of the social condition of all sections of the population, give him qualifications for the position that can be equalled by few. His presence on the Board would ensure some check on possible high handed proceedings on the part of the Board's servants and the overstapping by the Board itself of its legal rights, and also that the bylaws were in accordance with the Ordinances. Mr. Leigh likewise possesses exceptional qualifications. His experience in the Government Service and as a Civil Engineer of many years' standing in the colony, with extensive locatand sanitary knowledge, would be peculiarly valuable to the Board when it has to consider and determine upon drainage evalence, etc., while his knowledge of the cost of works would be a safeguard to the ratepayers against undue and extravagant exbe proposed by the Hon.
